Transforming Complex Government Data into Compelling Visuals
Key highlights

Darpan is designed and developed to address wide range of objectives and monitoring the performance & SLA targets of the Ministries, government departments at Central, State & local level, district administration and organizations

Darpan has been designed to encourage healthy competition among the participating departments by ranking them on formula based Key Performance Indicators (KPIs) with respect to the projects of a particular department or organization

Darpan is fully configurable for each and every state. State Administrator of every state has special privilege to decide the look and feel of the portal in his/her respective state

Acts as a powerful analytical & monitoring tool for departments / organizations

Gleans insights from raw data without writing a single line of code

Provides a single pane visibility into all key project metrics

Provides statistical & visual representation of key performance indicators (KPIs) in the form of graphs, charts or maps and with option to further drill down the data

Generates Scheme-wise and district-wise ranking as per the performance

Displays updated reports on dashboard on-demand

About NIC

National Informatics Centre (NIC) was established in 1976, and has since emerged as a "prime builder" of e-Government / e-Governance applications up to the grassroots level as well as a promoter of digital opportunities for sustainable development. NIC, through its ICT Network, "NICNET", has institutional linkages with all the Ministries /Departments of the Central Government, 36 State Governments/ Union Territories, and about 708 District administrations of India.

NIC has been instrumental in steering e-Government/e - Governance applications in government ministries /departments at the Centre, States, Districts and Blocks, facilitating improvement in government services, wider transparency, promoting decentralized planning and management, resulting in better efficiency and accountability to the people of India.
